Three Tomatoes Catering

Tue, November 15, 2022 at 3:20 PM · 3 min read

DENVER, CO / ACCESSWIRE / November 15, 2022 / Catering is a thriving industry, increasing at an average annual rate of 1.4% from 2017 to 2022, giving you many options when choosing a catering company. When you host a special event, you need everything to fall in place to make it memorable for all the right reasons.

The catering company you choose can contribute to creating a spectacular event or cause it to fall short of expectations for you and your guests. Three Tomatoes Catering shares tips to help you find a caterer that contributes to a pleasant experience, allowing you to enjoy the fun rather than stress over the food and service.

Three Tomatoes Catering Puts Responsiveness First

A company's responsiveness is a strong indicator of what your overall experience is likely to be. You want to choose a company with representatives who respond quickly to your questions and requests. They should listen to you and look for ways to turn your vision of the event into a reality, responding to your unique needs and desires with care and consideration.

It doesn't matter how long a catering company has been in business if it doesn't have experience catering the type of event you are hosting. A company holiday party has little in common with a wedding reception. Likewise, personal, intimate gatherings have different needs than a non-profit fundraiser. Three Tomatoes Catering recommends asking caterers about their experiences with your type of event when interviewing them.

The ideal catering company also utilizes state-of-the-art technology to serve its clients by the highest standards of clarity, ease of use, and convenience typical of e-commerce:

- Online event booking/payment
- Online menus and pricing
- Online calendar to schedule calls and meetings
- Online notifications with reminders and deadlines

Three Tomatoes Catering Suggests Finding a Caterer Who Is Creative and Flexible

Catering an event is seldom a cookie-cutter endeavor. No two events, hosts, or situations are alike. You should look for a catering company that is flexible and creative in all aspects of managing and delivering services, including:

changing needs

- Offering multiple catering packages
- Customizing service packages to meet unique event needs
- Responding to unexpected challenges during an event

Three Tomatoes Catering indicates that a creative and flexible catering company is less likely to be thrown when facing varying event needs and circumstances. They pride themselves on having the creativity and flexibility to adapt to any situation.

Look for a Company Familiar With the Venue

Your choice of venue is an essential factor when planning your event. Your careful consideration in choosing the right place should extend to selecting a catering company. The staff should fit seamlessly into the venue's background. If the staff aren't familiar with the location, they will likely fumble in their efforts to function in an unfamiliar space.

Select a Caterer That Fits Your Budget

The best catering company provides all-inclusive menu packages with the advantage of set prices that do not change based on the event timeline or guest count. In turn, this makes it easy to budget for your event needs.

Catering costs can vary widely, depending on your geographic location, the service level you choose, menu and drink choices, and individual catering company options. However, Three Tomatoes Catering has one final piece of advice: You don't need to break the bank to get excellent catering service.
